

Kids and their parents enjoyed a fun day of activities that included everything from making Easter bonnets to searching for Easter eggs on Saturday.

The day's activities began at the Mount Airy Museum of Regional History at the museum's annex where hats and all the adornments were provided for kids to use their imaginations. The girls made Easter bonnets and the boys decorated cowboy hats.

As the kids finished up their hat making, the Easter Bunny arrived just in time to lead a parade up Main Street to the Dr. Robert Smith house.

Community Police Officer Ray Arnder with the Mount Airy Police Department helped block traffic at each intersection until the Easter Bunny along with a long line of kids and parents safely reached their destination.
